ENVOY STARTS FOR NANKING TO NAME ACTING MILITARY CHIEF

Finance Vice-Minister Will Place Chi In Temporary Charge Of Office

FLEET PLEDGES LOYALTY

Peace Prospects In South Are Believed To Be Very Much Brighter

Our Peking Correspondent has succeeded in furnishing us the following message through the telegraph office. Evidently the censors are working and the telegram had been tampered with. It is significant that the report makes no mentioning of President Hsu who is reported to have resigned and to have left the capital, or of Chang Tso-lin who is reported to have taken over the reins of Government in Peking.

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, October 13, (filed at 5:20 p.m.)—Mr. Pan Fu, the Vice-Minister of Finance, departs tonight by special train to Nanking to represent the Government in offering condolence to the family of General Li Shun, and at the same time to give instructions to General Chi Shih-yuan, his temporary successor.

The Government hopes to utilise Tuchun Li's death as a step towards the abolishment of the Tuchunate, which has been so ardently advocated by the intelligent populace.

It has been suggested from certain quarters that General Wang Chuan-yuan, the present Hupeh Tuchun, should succeed him as Tuchun of Kiangsu and allow General Wu Pei-fu, China's idol of the hour, to become Military Governor of Hupeh.

MAY CHOOSE WEAKLING

But the Government proposes to appoint a weakling, some minor military official who may be easily removed.

The Government may ask Mr. Wang Hu, Li Shun's nominee for the Civil Governorship of Kiangsu to act as Tuchun concurrently until the Tuchunate is definitely abolished, because it is hoped that this will take place when the country is reconstructed following the reunification of the nation.

Both the Kwangsi factions, Lu Yung-ting and Moh Yung-hsin, are seeking union under the Peking Government. The native Cantonese commanders, Li Fu-ling and Wei Pang-ping, have assured the Peking administration that they can persuade Chen Chiung ming to take an amicable attitude towards Peking.

FLEET GIVES ALLEGIANCE

The Administration has announced that the Southern fleet has resumed its allegiance to the Government navy.

The obstruction of General Tang Chi-yao has been considerably weakened by his defeat in Szechuen.

Peking feels that the prospect for the reunification of the nation is bright.

The Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs has adopted an attitude of protest towards the military occupation of Hungchun by Japanese forces. It feels that the situation was magnified by the Japanese and the Chinese troops were quite capable of handling the situation alone.

Peking, October 13.—It is officially announced that the Southern navy has resumed allegiance to the Central Government.

STORY OF SQUADRON

The resumption of allegiance of the Southern naval squadron with the Peking Navy, though comparatively insignificant, concludes a historic chapter in China's naval history.

The squadron consisting of China's larger war vessels declared independence in 1917 under Admiral Chen Pi-kwang, following Ex-Marshal Tuan Chi-jui's refusal to restore the old Parliament and the Provisional Constitution after he had successfully checked Chang Hsun's monarchical movement.

Admiral Chen was assassinated in Canton and was succeeded by Admiral Ling Pao-yi. Various attempts were made by Peking to invite the squadron back to the fold but without success.

NEW CABINET TO BE FORMED AT VLADIVOSTOK

Socialists Give Reply To Late Ultimatum Issued By Their Opponents

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, Oct. 12.—The Socialist bloc has passed a resolution to the effect that, considering the decision of the non-Socialist parties to leave the Coalition, and their non-intention to carry out democratic principles, especially in regard to foreign policy, the Socialists, wishing to maintain a democratic policy in the interests of Russia, to discontinue internal warfare and to bring the country together, have decided with the peasants to bear the above aims in view in making up the new Cabinet.

The Chairman of the Chita Assembly has telegraphed stating that satisfactory progress is being made to establish Chita as the seat of a Far Eastern Government. He adds that the Zabaikal Cossacks are supporting and carefully following the Assembly's work.

Commander Of Invading Force Said To Have Acted Without Sanction

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 11.—The Poles have taken the Lithuanian capital, Vilna. The Polish Commander has proclaimed a new Government.

London, October 11.—It appears that the capture of Vilna by the Poles was due to unauthorised action on the part of General Zeligovski, who, after resigning and cutting off communications with Warsaw and the other Polish forces, marched his troops against Vilna.

It is believed that the Polish Government will disavow his conduct.

Paris, Oct. 12.—A telegram from Warsaw states that yesterday the Polish Chief of Staff presented the Military Cross to French officers, including two generals.

New York, Oct. 11.—The Riga correspondent of the Associated Press telegraphs that the preliminary peace treaty between Poland and the Soviet Government must be ratified within 15 days after signature and the exchange of ratifications must take place within 60 days of ratification.

The armistice provides that the war shall cease on October 7 or six days after the signature of the preliminary treaty, which is expected tonight.

Famine Relief Committee Sending $275,000 North; Over Million Subscribed

At last night's meeting of the executive body of the Shanghai famine relief organisation the sum of $275,000 was appropriated from funds on hand to be forwarded immediately into the northern famine area and following the meeting it was announced that cash donations that have been received and subscriptions pledged now exceed a million dollars. Reports of subscriptions are to be published weekly by the committee in future.

The $275,000 appropriated last night will be employed as follows:

To the Famine Relief Committee of Shansi Province, $50,000.

To the International Relief Committee at Tientsin, $100,000.

To nine different Chinese philanthrophists in Chihli, $20,000.

To the Chekiang Relief Committee, $50,000.

To the Honan Relief Committee, $50,000.

To Mr. Troxel, missionary worker at Tungchwan in the south of Chihli, $5,000.

Mr. Chu Pao-sen presided at last night's meeting of the local committee.

CONDITIONS IN CHIHLI ARE DESCRIBED IN LETTER

More light is thrown on the light of the famine-stricken people of Chihli province in a letter written by Father Montaigne, dated Sept. 6 to a Bishop describing conditions in the district of Paotingfu capital of the province of Chihli.

Following is a translation of the letter which is full of interest:

"I thank you most heartily for your kind letter of the 3rd inst., and as requested by your Lordship I shall now in a few words state the conditions in the Vicariate of Paotingfu without in any way exaggerating.

MILLION MINERS VOTE ON STRIKE IN BRITISH MINES

Result Of Ballot Awaited Anxiously By People Of The Empire

SOME RETURNS RECEIVED

Datum-line Proposal Is Rejected Narrowly By Northumberland Men

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 11.—The whole country awaits with interest the decision of the miners as to whether there shall be a coal strike or not.

During today and tomorrow nearly a million miners will ballot on the question of the rejection or acceptance of the datum line offered by the mine-owners, but anything like accurate calculations as to the result are impossible before Wednesday, when the Executive of the Miners Federation will meet in London to receive the figures, as there is no means of measuring the extent of the check given to the earlier wave of opposition by the recommendations of Mr. Smillie and other leaders to accept the owners' terms.

Significant of the influence of Mr. Smillie is the narrow majority, namely 55 votes to 45 by which the Northumberland Miners' Council rejected the datum-line scheme, and the fact that, coupled with the rejection, was support for a proposal to refer the wages demand to an impartial tribunal.

The ballot papers in some South Wales districts have already been returned, and, as expected, show a heavy majority against acceptance.

Siberian Envoys Had No Influence On New Rule Is Statement

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 12.—The following is the official summary of statements, made to various foreign Ministers by Dr. W. W. Yen, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Philip Tyau, Counsellor at the Waichiaopu, with regard to the arrangements for the administration of the Russian Concessions and Russian Government property in China:

(1) The Presidential mandate of September 9, produces no rupture of China's treaty relations with Russia but merely an interregnum.

TREATIES SUSTAINED

(2) The mandate does not contemplate abrogation of Russian treaties or of the rights derived from them.

(3) The arrival and presence of the Verdhne-Udinsk mission in Peking has no connection whatsoever with the Government's withdrawal of official recognition of the Russian Minister and Consul.

(4) The Chinese Government proposes to take over temporarily the custody of Russian Government property and, pending the resumption of formal treaty relations with Russia, the control and administration of the Russian Concessions in China, such properties and Concessions to be held in trust until such time as a recognised Russian Government exists.

SUPERVISED BY CHINESE

(5) The Administration of the Russian Concessions shall be supervised by a Chinese Foreign Commissioner, sympathetically inclined and suited to the task, who will succeed to all duties and functions of the former Russian Consul, but the machinery of local self-government, including the Municipal Council and the police force, the imposition and the determination of the degree of taxation, the expenditure of Russian Government funds and the election of local officers by the tax-payers under the existing suffrance provision, will not be affected otherwise and will remain in force but, if circumstances warrant, proposals may be adopted for its improvement and smoothworking.

(6) Extra-territorial rights of Russians shall be in abeyance but in suits brought by subjects of foreign Powers against Russians, which will be tried in the Russian Courts, Russian law shall be applied in so far as is consistent with the exercise of Chinese authority and an expert on Russian law may be employed consultatively by the Chinese judge.

Report Peking Government Has Been Overthrown And Monarchy Proclaimed By Chang Tso-lin Is Not Yet Denied

THE report that Chang Tso-lin has carried out a coup d'etat, seized the government at Peking and proclaimed a monarchy, has not been confirmed or denied.

It is now accepted as certain by leading Chinese officials and representatives of the government that, if a monarchical movement has not been started, some extraordinary happening has arisen at the capital.

It is generally accepted that Gen. Li Shun's tragic death—whether it was murder or suicide—is an important element, and is closely related to the developments of the past 48 hours at Peking.

While telegraphic communication with Peking has not been stopped entirely, and a number of press and commerical messages were received yesterday and last night, it seems apparent that some form of restraint has been placed upon the service.

News messages received were barren of references to President Hsu; who, according to report, has moved to Tientsin—or to Chang Tso-lin, or to Tsao Kun.

It was learned last night that officials of a number of government bureaus in Shanghai, early yesterday, addressed anxious inquiries to government offices in Peking. All of these went unanswered and were ignored—an extraordinary happening.

PRESIDENT OUT

On high authority it was reported last night that a message did come through from the capital yesterday, addressed to a high official of the government here.

This message, according to report, was in code and consisted of six Chinese characters conveying the information that President Hsu had abdicated, and that Chang Tso-lin had assumed power.

Another report of a character meriting attention was that a message had been received here by a leading Chinese saying that the Dragon flag is flying over the railway station at Peking.

On a report that THE CHINA PRESS received in the course of the day, that Chi Yao-lin, Civil Governor of Kiangsu, had asked Gen. Lu Yung-hsiang to move troops to Nanking, a message was addressed to General Lu, asking for confirmation or denial. This message had not been answered at a late hour last night.

RAILWAY BLOCKED

It will be remembered that, while the Anfu-Chihli fight was in progress, General Lu dispatched certain troops into Kiangsu territory and these were stopped by forces sent against them by General Li, who ordered the dismantling of several railroad bridges, blocking traffic over the Shanghai-Nanking line.

It is difficult to tell the motive of Governor Chi at the moment in making the move he is said to have made. It could be interpreted to be a feint to extend General Lu's authority into Kiangsu.

"If something has happened at Peking—if there has been a coup d'etat at the capital—Li Shun was murdered," is the opinion advanced by Tang Shao-yi, former Premier and Southern statesman, and the view that he holds is shared by leading Chinese, politicians and others in general in Shanghai.

MR. TANG'S OPINION

"In cases of suicide when pistols are used," Mr. Tang asked, "did you ever hear of a man shooting himself in the abdomen while in bed?"

The Southern leader went on to point out that there were things about the will, which has been made public at Nanking and published here, that are decidedly questionable.

"The bequests mentioned in that will, of $2,000 each to four concubines," said Mr. Tong, "are so unusual that it is altogether unlikely that any Chinese in a position like that Li Shun held or a man of his wealth would do. It is unbelievable."

He said also that the time of the tragedy was unusual—four o'clock in the morning—and in this connection he made the comment that the report of a pistol fired beneath a pile of bed clothes would be muffled and probably would not be heard a short distance away. But he added that he did not believe a man as sane as Li Shun would choose that means of ending his life.

HE IS SUSPICIOUS

Mr. Tong said that Li Shun's death undoubtedly has some connection with recent developments at Peking whatever these may be found to be.

Both Tang Shao-yi and his colleague, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, ad-

Kiangsu Tuchun Slain By Monarchist, Is Belief Of China's Political Experts

Foul Play Seen And Conflicting Details Pointed Out In Reports Concerning Alleged Suicide Of Military Governor In Nanking

Leading Chinese political experts believe that Li Shun, Tuchun of this this province, did not commit suicide. On the other hand, he was either murdered or forced to take his own life by one of his former close military associates. A thick veil of mystery is now hanging over the death of the Military Governor.

Shocked by the news of the sudden alleged suicide of the Tuchun Monday, the public had little chance to digest the intelligence. Yesterday the details, as published by THE CHINA PRESS and one or two Chinese leading newspapers opened the way for much discussion and speculation.

The manner of the suicide as reported is suspicious. It is most improbable that a person should shoot himself through the side into the abdomen. The browning pistol, according to the detailed reports, was found underneath the pillow.

WILL QUESTIONABLE

The will, which at one time, perhaps, succeeded in removing certain suspicion for foul play, is itself most questionable. The allotment of $2,000 each for his four concubines is most unnatural considering the financial circumstances of the deceased Tuchun. His failure to distinguished the degree of favor among the women is another remarkable feature of the will.

Many theories were yesterday advanced by Chinese as to the cause of the alleged murder. The following is perhaps plausible:

It will be remembered that about six weeks ago, Koo Ngoh, the ardent monarchist, was arrested in Nanking by order of Tuchun Li and thrown in jail. A trial took place in camera when Koo was said to have admitted his plans in instigating a monarchical movement and completing certain arrangements with a number of military officers in Kiangsu. The names of certain individuals were disclosed.

Among these latter was one who has been closely connected with General Li ever since the establishment of the Republic and whom General Li brought up from a minor post to power and prestige. Li was naturally indignant, but was helpless in retaliating because this particular associate had been his active lieutenant and controls all the force nominally under his own command.

AMNESTY EXTENDED

By some superior order, presumably an order from Peking upon the instigation of Chang Tso-lin, Li Shun was obliged to release Koo a week ago without making known the reasons of the extension of amnesty.

It is believed that immediately after his release, a plot was made by the treacherous military officer for Li's murder. The act was planned with care and carried out out with success. The will in the form of three letters it is said, was written by Li just before he was murdered or forced to die.

Such is the theory held by a number of local Chinese residents who had been in close watch over the events which led to the tragic incident in Nanking.

Norway Refuses To Deal With Russia

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 11.—The Helsingfors correspondent of the Daily Telegraph states that M. Litvinoff declared that he left Norway in consequence of the impossibility of reaching an agreement with the Norwegian Government with regard to commercial relations with Soviet Russia.

He said that Norway's attitude towards the Soviet had completely changed during the summer and autumn.

mitted yesterday that it was easily within range of possibility that a movement to restore the monarchy had been set in motion at Peking by Chang Tso-lin.

Neither of these Southern leaders, however, was willing to accept the report that such a movement has actually been carried through.

Doctor Sun said he was unwilling to express any opinion concerning what may have happened at Peking, and Tang Shao-yi said that while he believed that some unusual developments had been brought about he was not yet willing to accept the report that a monarchical movement had been carried through.

GOOD FOR CHINA

Mr. Tang said that, if a monarchy has been proclaimed, it would be a good thing for China.

"Because," he explained, "it would then be crushed, finally and forever. The South—with the exception of General Lu Yung-ting of Kwangsi—would be solidly against any restoration of a monarchy, and such a movement would be destined to failure."

If a coup d'etat has been carried through at Peking and a monarchy has been proclaimed, Chinese leaders here do not believe that the purpose is to place the boy Manchu emperor, Hsuan Tung, on the throne.

It is believed that the monarchists mean to give the place to Prince Kung, the boy emperor's uncle, who has lived long at Dairy under the protection of the Japanese.

Whatever has happened, according to the view of Tang Shao-yi, the Japanese are fully informed; if, in fact, all the developments of recent months have not been directed from Tokio.

"With the exception of the vicinity of Ngankia-tchoang one can say that as far away as to Ansusien and Koangtchang there is no harvest in our Vicariate.

DISTRESS EVERYWHERE

"It is distress everywhere. Already in Spring there was no grain; only in a few spots where the Tang-ho had overflowed last Autumn it had been possible to sow, and even this small area has not yielded one half of an ordinary harvest. As a matter of fact the harvest was not one twentieth part of the grain which is harvested during an average year and this was already a great calamity for our Province.

"We have not had rain strong enough to soak the ground neither in Spring nor in Summer: the last good rainfall came as far back as the month of July, 1919: as a consequence it has been impossible in many places to sow last Spring, more especially in the subprefectures of Choulou, Poueye, T'angsien, Wan Sien, and during the whole year these places have looked exactly like deserts where not even grass has grown.

"Nevertheless, everywhere else where there was the smallest hope, seed was sown but the grain came up very sparingly and little by little most of it died owing to want of humidity.

"Around the villages where there are garden districts with wells it was possible to water a small area.

"A few thunderstorms passed over the country and a few villages reaped the benefit from them but, of course, all this was insufficient. Lastly, where it had been possible to grow a harvest, the grasshoppers arrived and destroyed everything in a short time.

PRICES MOUNTING

"And that is why already now the whole Vicariate suffers from famine. Every day the missionaries witness terrible scenes. Grain is already sold at an exorbitant price; the poor sell at ridiculous prices everything which they possess: their beasts, their furniture, even their winter clothing, running the risk to die from cold in another three months' time if they be not already then dead from starvation.

"Many emigrate towards Mongolia and Manchuria or, in any case, try to emigrate because this is not always very easily done. They are stopped in the mountain passes and are made to return.

"I was told quite recently of a family from this place which set out, altogether eight persons. About three weeks later only one man returned, the other seven had died en route.

"We see every day hordes of emigrants from other Vicariates passing through because the calamity is not confined to us. Generally speaking one may say that with the exception of Koangtchang and Ngansusien the whole of the Vicariate is terribly stricken: in the poor places people already suffer from a proper famine and in the better situated places it is only a question of days and we are only now in the 7th Moon: If Providence does not give us abundant rains before the end of the month the peasants will not be able to sow the grain for next year's harvest and in that case it will be endless misery.

AID IS NEEDED

"The extent of the calamity makes it more difficult to organise assistance because it is necessary at the same time to come to the assistance of everyone.

"People begin already to plunder the grains of those more fortunate who have been able to save some up from last year. The markets have already been looted.

"If only one could prevail upon the civil and military authorities to take the situation in hand and for instance to execute great work of public utility such as public roads, canals, etc. how different the situation would be:

"These last few years so much has been said and written here in Paotingfu about projects of this kind. Where one would thus have been able to help an armed force will now be necessary. Considering the actual cost of grain the minimum expense to keep a person by only giving him the absolutely necessities to keep him alive but not sufficient to work on, that is by giving him "tcheou" twice a day will cost thirteen or fourteen cents per day.

"I would like to go to Peking one of these days so as to place the situation before you, also to speak about projects and to receive advice."

Hungchun Is Raided Three Times By Bandits, Says Customs Report

Taels 20,000 Seized By Looters In One Sortie And Official Held For Short Time By Outlaws

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, October 12.—Customs reports emphasised the danger of bandit raids at Hungchun several months ago. The city has now been raided three times.

The Customs Station has been looted and robbed of Tls. 20,000, while a Customs official was seized but was subsequently released.

The population of Hungchun includes many Japanese and Koreans and the presence of Japanese troops at Novokievsk, furnished the opportunity for an appeal to them to protect the city.

BANDITS DEFEATED

The troops at Novokievsk did not respond to the appeal as they belong to the Siberian Command but just prior to the last raid 300 Japanese arrived at Hungchun from Korea and it was they who defeated the bandits in the most recent attack.

Two raids seem to have occurred before the Japanese occupation of Possiet Bay and Novokievsk, where the Japanese were established weeks before sending troops from Korea.

Chinese troops are now leaving for Hunchun, while the Japanese guard the city. Thus another incident has arisen owing primarily to the dilatoriness of the Mukden authorities who ignored all warning until the Japanese troops reached Hungchun.

ORDER AT CHIENTAO

Seoul, October 12.—Japanese troops are restoring order at Chientao. The raiders, apparently, came from Nikolsk and were acting in connection with the Bolsheviks.

Tokio, October 12.—Mr. Nishizawa of the Foreign Office has left for Chientao to conduct an investigation into the bandit outrages there.

Peking, October 13.—Mr. Obata, the Japanese Minister on the 9th inst. informed the Waichiaopu that Japan desired to send troops to Hungchun to restore order, in co-operation with Chinese troops, after which the Japanese would be withdrawn.

The Waichiaopu replied on the 11th to the effect that the Chinese Government would view with displeasure the sending of Japanese troops to Hungchun, particularly as a large number of Chinese troops had already been sent there.

The Waichiaopu, in common with Mr. Obata, appears to ignore the fact that Japanese troops had been sent to Hungchun at least a week prior to Mr. Obata's request for permission.

ANATOLE FRANCE, AT 76, MARRIES

Famous Author And Member Of Academy Has Romance Late In Life

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 12.—The marriage of M. Anatole France, the famous author, to Mlle. Emma La Prevot was celebrated yesterday before the Mayor at St. Cyr-sur-Loire.

M. Jacques Anatole Thibault France was born April 16, 1844, in Paris. He was educated at the College Stanislaus and is an Officer of the Legion of Honor and a Member of the French Academy.

M. France has written more than 40 celebrated works eminent among which are The Gods Have Thirst (Eng.) Le Livre de Mon Ami, Nos Enfants, La Vie Litteraire, Les Opinions de Monsieur Jerome Cogniard, Memoires d'un Volontaire, Histoire Comique, Histoire de Jeanne d'Arc, Les Sept Femmes de la Barbe Bleue and La Revolte des Anges.

His residence is at Villa Said V, Paris.

Wilson's Complete Recovery Despaired Of By Physicians

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 11.—President Wilson has suffered a slight relapse of illness, which may be attributed to his extra exertions in the campaign in the interests of Governor Cox.

His friends and physicians are convinced that the President has not yet regained his normal strength and must go a slower pace.

A distinguished physician, who has had excellent opportunities of studying the President's case, states that, while President Wilson will never recover his strength, he will carry on as at present indefinitely.

The case is like ordinary paralysis but the President is determined to cope grimly with his daily work and play the game to the end with high courage.

Cost Of Living Is Falling In States Says Bradstreet's

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Oct. 11.—A downward movement in the cost of living in the United States is indicated by the fact that Bradstreet's monthly index number, representing the sum of current prices for 96 foodstuffs and other necessaries, is 1691 while the last figure was 1952. Ten groups of commodities declined while textiles, raw cotton, and wool, hemp and the principal provisions and groceries were slightly

Chinese Workers In France On Holiday

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 11.—The anniversary of the Republic in China was commemorated today in a festival, arranged by Chinese workmen in their camp at Clichy near Paris. Various speakers expressed their sense of obligation to France for the kind and considerate treatment accorded to the Chinese workers.

MOBOLISE INDUSTRY FOR DEFENSE, SAYS PREMIER OF JAPAN

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, October 12.—The Premier, in the course of a speech today before the Munitions Commission, emphasised the paramount importance of an industrial mobilisation scheme for national defense.

He said that, utilising the appropriation voted by the last Diet, a plan of national defense was proceeding, including a thorough investigation of the utilisation of the factories, mines, railways, and shipping commissions with the object of considering the most efficient co-ordination in case of emergency.

Tokio, October 12.—The War Office is spending Yen 2,500,000 in fortifying the islands of Oshima and Hachijojima, repairing old fortifications and also in perfecting new rifles and machine-guns.

Eleven Killed In Battle With Arabs

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 11.—A communique on the Mesopotamian situation, issued today, states that 11 men were killed and 49 wounded in the fighting south of Hillan in the Middle Euphrates region.

The enemy's casualties were probably heavier. A force of 1,000 Arabs opposed the advance of the Samawah relief column but were routed. British losses were slight.

On the Upper Euphrates the Britains reoccupied Hit without opposition.

Officers In India Approve Fisher Plan

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 11.—The report of Viscount Fisher's committee on the administration and organisation of the Indian Army has aroused great interest in India and Great Britain.

Comment is generally favorable but there has been some criticism, headed by the Times, which contended that the Committee's proposals involved the subordination of the Indian Army to the War Office.

According to the Simla correspondent of the Times, however, the authorities in India disagree with this contention.

They declare that such subordination would be highly objectionable but maintain that the report visualises the formation of an Imperial Military Advisory body, under which the War Office, the Dominion military forces and the Army in India would participate on equal terms in the execution of Imperial military policy, the Army in India being directly under the Government of India for organisation and administration.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, October 12.—Mr. Jiro Harada, a retired Director of the Mitsubishi Company, has allocated his entire fortune of Yen 10,000,000 to found the Sekizenkai, an organisation for the welfare of the middle classes and for patriotic public undertakings.

The trustees include the Premier, Mr. Hara, Marquis Okuma, and noted scholars and businessmen.

Fear Of New Panic Expressed In Japan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, October 12.—The Osaka Mainichi in a leading article today expresses fear of a repetition of the economic panic when the loans to cotton-yarn merchants fall due in the not distant future because the value of the merchandise, which the banks are holding as security, has greatly depreciated.

Tokio, October 12.—It is reported that the Cabinet has decided to reimpose the duty on cereals from November next owing to falling prices. A good crop is expected. There is still no duty on meat and eggs.

Peking, October 13.—The Famine Relief Bureau in Peking has instituted lotteries to be drawn on November 30 and December 10. Sixty percent of the ticket sales will be devoted to famine relief.

Prince Of Wales Called Empire's Greatest Envoy

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 11.—The press accords a very warm welcome to the Prince of Wales, editorial articles recalling the great services to the Empire on the recent travels of "our young man" and alternatively, "the Empire's greatest Ambassador."

The Renown was yesterday escorted to Spithead by a destroyer and a flotilla of aeroplanes. The Prince remained on board last night.

Everything is now complete for a magnificent national welcome today. Arrangements have been made for the Royal train to slow down at wayside stations to London to enable everyone possible to greet the Prince.

ROYAL SALUTE FIRED

London, October 11.—The Prince of Wales received a most enthusiastic welcome home from his Australian tour today. The firing of the Royal salute by beflagged warships greeted his arrival at Portsmouth, where, looking well and cheery, the Prince was welcomed by an imposing assembly of the naval, military and civil authorities. Replying to an address by the Mayor of Portsmouth, the Prince said that he had returned, most deeply touched by the unity and strength of the sentiment, binding all parts of His Majesty's Dominions to the Crown and making the future of the British Empire secure. So firm and clear was this devotion to British ideals and to the King as their head that his travels throughout had been a profoundly moving and inspiring experience. The Prince said that he was looking forward greatly now to his stay at home. He feared that we were still only at the beginning of the labors necessary to restore our credit and prosperity after the war. The Prince added that he was deeply interested in the problem of reconstruction, which all parts of the nation must pull together to solve.

GIVEN WARM WELCOME

Later.—The Prince of Wales received a very warm welcome at Victoria station, which was decorated with Imperial flags. The platform where the Royal train drew up was carpeted with red baize and decorated with flowers. A banner inscribed "Well Done!" and "Welcome Home!" faced the Royal saloon. The Coldstream Guards supplied the guard of honor.

The King and Queen, Princess Mary, Queen Alexandra, the Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur of Connaught and other members of the Royal Family, the Premier, the Members of the Cabinet, the High Commissioners and Agents-General for the Colonies, Indian princes, high authorities of the Navy, Army and Air Force, the Lord Chief Justice, the Archbishop of Canterbury and other Bishops were present.

Huge crowds raised hearty cheers for the Prince as he drove in a State carriage through the decorated streets to the Palace. The King and Queen and the other members of the Royal Family returned to the Palace in separate processions.

ARRIVES AT PALACE

London, October 11.—The very enthusiastic welcome, which was accorded the Prince of Wales at his arrival at Portsmouth and in London, was renewed at Buckingham Palace this afternoon, when, in response to the cheers of an enormous crowd, the Prince and the King and Queen appeared on a balcony.

The Prince waved his handkerchief and made a speech, acknowledging the splendid spontaneous welcome he had received.

Subsequently, as the Prince was returning to York House, his motorcar was repeatedly held up by the crowds. His Royal Highness smilingly acknowledged these demonstrations of affection.

Stubborn Case of Boils & Pimples

"Can honestly say I am quite cured"

Our portrait is of Mr. W. BRIDAL, 27, Strand Street, Newtown, Mountain Ash, South Wales, Great Britain, who writes:

"It gives me great pleasure in telling you about the remarkable cure I found in Clarke's Blood Mixture for boils and pimples. After having suffered from time to time from both, and trying all kinds of so called remedies, and being under doctor's treatment, I thought of Clarke's Blood Mixture, having tried it years ago with success for a similar complaint. After taking one bottle it seemed to drive them out, and after the second bottle I found a decided improvement, and continuing with your Mixture I can honestly say I am quite cured."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious.

ASQUITH CHARGES ANARCHY POLICY OFFERED IRISH

Premier Replies That He Will Ignore Remarks Of His Predecessor

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 11.—Mr. Asquith has replied to Mr. Lloyd George's statement on the Irish situation, at Carnarvon on Saturday in a communication to the press, in which he describes the speech as a declaration of insolvency on the part of the Coalition Government.

"Ireland," Mr. Asquith continued, "presents the one issue of supreme importance involving both the safety of the Empire and the honor and good name of Britain.

"The only Irish policy the Premier has to offer is repudiation root and branch of Dominion Home Rule and condonation of the hellish policy of reprisals. An attempt to answer murder by murder and outrage by terrorism is no Government but anarchy."

PREMIER REPLIES

London, October 11.—Mr. Lloyd George has now issued a very brief reply to Mr. Asquith's statement on the Irish question (already cabled.)

The Premier declines to take notice of Mr. Asquith's statement, adding: "There is my speech for all to read who care to. I merely say that I notice no mention by Mr. Asquith of the 'hellish policy' of murder."

London, Oct. 11.—Details of yesterday's Irish outrages show that the lorry, previously reported to have been blown up whilst proceeding to Castlerea station, County Roscommon, was destroyed by a bomb thrown into it.

LORRIES AMBUSHED

The two military lorries, which were ambushed at Bandon, County Cork, on Saturday night by a hundred armed men, contained three officers and twenty men. The lorries were fired on from both sides.

The road was pulled up so the soldiers dismounted and opened fire on the attacking party. The fight lasted for an hour in pitch darkness. The soldiers were unable to see the attacking party while the military were plainly visibly by the headlights of the lorries.

Machine-gunning by an attacking party on a military lorry is reported in connection with an ambush at Kanturk, County Cork. The lorry was held up by milk-carts, drawn across the road.

One soldier was killed and several wounded. When the news reached Kanturk the people, recognising the probability of reprisals hurriedly closed their shops and began a general exodus from the town in a state of considerable alarm and excitement.

Friendship Of Nations Is To Benefit World

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 12.—According to advices from New York, General Fayolle, speaking at a banquet, given in his honor, at which many prominent Americans and leading members of the French colony in New York were present, said:

"Lasting friendship between France and America is not only to the interests of the two countries but also to the interest of the whole human race."

Discrimination For Planters Of Cotton To Be Barred By U.S. Reserve Boara

(Reuter's Service)

New York, September 17 (by mail).—Easily the most outstanding feature in the cotton market this week was the action of the Federal Reserve Board in refusing the request of a delegation of Southern cotton growers, bankers and merchants, led by officers of the American Cotton Association, for governmental aid in marketing their cotton crop.

In his refusal, Governor Harding of the Board told the delegates pointedly to "go back home and tell the people to quit talking calamity"; advice which was heartily concurred in by interests in all parts of the country who are becoming weary of the persistent clamor from the South for discrimination in favor of the cotton grower, when goods, sugar, grain, coffee, silks, wool and pretty much every other commodity has had to share in the downward trend that has occurred in living costs.

SELL BEST STOCK, ADVICE

It was the suggestion of the Board that the cotton men sell their high grade stock to meet demands as they arise, which would enable them to gradually liquidate their debts and hold their low grades for better markets.

The Board also said money had been diverted from other sections of the country to help Southern banks to meet the normal crop demands and that no further action could be expected.

In answer to the oft-repeated claim of the South that the world is bare of cotton and should therefore buy its raw product at much higher prices than those now ruling, it is pointed out in trade circles here that the needs of the world are one thing and its ability to buy another.

It is doubtless true that there are many holes to fill, but financial conditions abroad are not such as to justify normal purchases of raw material, and cotton is merely suffering along with many other commodities.

JAPAN DEMAND FAILS

The absence of demand from Japan is being sorely felt in the Southwest. Advices say Texas receipts are increasing without the usual outlets and a serious state of affairs has been created.

In former seasons much of the early movement was absorbed by Japanese buyers, but the depressed state of trade and finances in the Far East led to cancellations of large forward contracts for new crop cotton earlier in the season, and there has been almost no buying since.

Japan is understood to have huge stocks of both American and East Indian cotton, according to latest reports, and consequently is not restricting her yarn and cloth production by deferring fresh cotton purchases.

The one bright spot in the situation is the evidence, late in the week, that the domestic goods trade has improved. It would be perhaps too much to say at this time that it has turned the corner, but latest advices are that demand has broadened considerably and prices have advanced.

Many manufacturers feel that curtailment has already gone to a sufficient extent to make itself felt in a stronger market with a less surplus of goods to be watched for distress prices. Meantime preparations are being made in many parts of the South to hold cotton.

LACK OF PICKERS

It is expected that September 20 will be set aside in every cotton state as "Cotton day," when meetings will be held to formally enter the fight for 40 cent cotton. It is planned to fully utilise every warehouse facility for holding cotton, and to increase the acreage in grain and other crops at the expense of cotton.

In Central and Southern Alabama farmers have found themselves in desperate condition at the beginning of the season because of their inability to get pickers and thousands of acres cannot be touched for many weeks.

Great weevil damaged is reported in the fields of Southwest and it is considered quite probable that present weather and opening cotton is only now enabling the planter to really judge of the damage done to his crop by the weevil.

A man who makes a business of travelling through Texas to examine the crop says South Texas, which last year made about 300,000 bales, will this year produce 650,000 to 700,000 bales. But for the rains of last month, he declared, Texas would easily have made 4 million bales, and still thinks it will produce 3,500,000 bales.

A PRESENT FROM NATURE

Moreover, what is Nature? It is that from which all creation springs. When things lose this Principle they die: when they receive it they are born. If man, in acting, run counter to it, they fail, if they comply with it, they succeed. Wherefore drop your silly prejudices and turn to Nature. From among its lofty mountains, covered with eternal snow, it offers you its product:—A TIBETAN FOX SKIN. Send $25.—(Chinese Post Office Money Order) to MR. ELLY WIDLER, TATSIENLU, SZECHWAN PROVINCE, and by return mail he will forward one of these specially selected TIBETAN FOX SKINS.

CLEVELAND WINS 1920 WORLD'S BALL CHAMPIONSHIP

INDIANS BEAT ROBINS IN 7th TITLE CONTEST

Coveleskie Wins Third Straight Victory And Clinches The Championship

By Dudley Burrows

(Amplified from U.S. Naval Radio)

The Cleveland Indians, under the leadership of Tris Speaker, yesterday won the baseball championship of the world, defeating the Brooklyn Robins by the decisive score of 3-0.

Stanley Coveleskie, the marvellous Pole who had been the nemesis of the Brooklyn team in two preceding games, was in the box for the Speakerites, winning his third straight game from the National leaguers.

Coveleskie held the hard-hitting Robins scoreless throughout the nine innings. Brooklyn was only able to take two victories out of seven from the American Leaguers.

INCOGNITI TEAM BEATS FRANKFORD

English Cricket Team Scores One-Sided Victory Over Philadelphians

Philadelphia, Sept. 1.—Fulfilling general expectations, based upon the stand of the Incogniti cricketers yesterday, the English eleven of university and army players notched a one-sided victory at the expense of the Frankford Cricket Club on the grounds of the Philadelphia Cricket Club at St. Martins today and the local team suffered defeat by an inning and 21 runs. In other words, the Frankfords went twice to bat to once for their opponents and yet they were unable to equal the Incogniti total, being, in fact, still twenty-one runs short.

The home team, which had scored 55 for the loss of seven wickets, after the Incogniti had rolled up 282, did surprisingly well this morning, so much so that they had realised 147 before the side was dismissed. This left them 135 to get to tie the total of their opponents and prevent a follow-on, but they were unequal to the task. The net result of their second stay at the wickets was 114. The spurt which brought the overnight total of 55 to 147 was due largely to the efforts of R. Waad, the Frankford bowler, and C. H. Winter, their wicket keeper, who put on 77 for the ninth wicket. Waad scored 39 and Winter 47.

ONE FINE STAND

The outstanding feature of Frankford's second innings was the fine stand of W. Long, who made 29 at his first attempt. Long again was first man up and he stayed at the wickets, defying all efforts of the visiting trundlers to dislodge him, until he had compiled the very useful score of 45. Long was the seventh man out and then Waad and Winter once more became associated, but, although they both attained double figures, they had to be content with 12 and 14, respectively. Twenty "extras" helped boost the Frankford total appreciably.

Captain R. St. L. Fowler of the Seventeenth Lancers was most successful of the Incogniti bowlers, taking four wickets for 37 runs in the first innings and five wickets for 26 runs in the second. Major G. H. M. Cartwright of the Grenadier Guards had an analysis of four wickets for 42 runs and three for 37. So far as actual figures were concerned, Desmond Roberts, the change bowler, could show the best results with two wickets for 12 runs yesterday and one wicket for one run today.

Tomorrow the visitors will have an off day and will spend the day in sight-seeing. Their second match will be against an eleven of the Philadelphia Cricket Club on the same grounds at St. Martins.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

By K. C. B.

THEY WERE two old men.
WHO HAD made little yachts.
AND FITTED them out.
WITH THE proper sails.
AND PUT them out.
WITH THEIR rudders set.
IN A little lake.
AND THE two old men.
HELD TWO long poles.
TO GUIDE them with.
IF THEY neared the shore.
AND I came along.
AND SAW them there.
AND SAID to myself.
"WHAT SILLY old men."
AND STUCK around.
AS THE little yachts.
WENT ON their way.
TO THE turning place.
AT THE other end.
OF THE little lake.
AND I found myself.
PULLING VERY hard.
FOR ONE of the boats.
IN ITS bright red paint
AND THE pilot of which.
WAS THE whiskered one.
OF THE two old men.
AND WE were ahead.
WHEN I picked it out.
BUT THE wind was fickle.
AND THE other boat.
IN ITS coat of blue.
PICKED UP the breeze.
AND PASSED our boat.
BUT NOT for long.
FOR THE very same breeze.
FOUND THE little red boat.
AND FILLED its sails.
AND THE two of them.
CAME DOWN the lake.
WITH THE breeze astern.
AND THEIR sails drawn tight.
AND AT a speed.
THAT I should say.
WAS DRIVING them on.
AT A mile an hour.
AND NEARING the finish.
OUR LITTLE red boat.
WAS ON even terms.
WITH THE little blue boat.
AND THE old man veiled.
AND SO did I.
AND WE crossed the line.
ONE FOOT ahead.
AND I went to suggest.
A RACE like this.
FOR AMERICA'S cup.
I THANK you.

GOLF MIX-UP IS COMPLICATED

American Associations Disagree On 'Stymie' Rule Passed In U. S.—Anglo Caucus

The United States Golf Association was placed in a curiously embarrassing situation recently as a result of the announcement from Chicago that officials of the Western Golf Association, the large sectional body, would take no cognisance of the newly adopted rules for golf insofar as they apply to the stymie. The W. G. A. statement was to the effect that stymies will henceforth be barred from matches under its jurisdiction, as before.

It was this precise difference in rules in America that the U. S. G. A. special committee on rules tried to eliminate when it conferred during June with the Royal and Ancient at St. Andrews, Scotland.

Golfers now know that the result of those important conferences was a half-way conciliatory measure which it was hoped would bring both factions of this country together.

BRITONS YIELDED

Evidently it was pointed out to the Britons that the W. G. A. would concur, for the controlling British association made the radical concession of agreeing to put the new stymie rule before its golfers in a referendum within the next few months.

This followed the temporary cessation of conferences on the subject when the Britons first refused to consider a change. The American attitude was that for the best interests of golf in the future it should be played alike all over the world, and the Britons finally accepted this point.

Embarrassing for U. S. G. A. Now the U. S. G. A. is placed in the position of having to answer to Great Britain for the attitude of many western clubs which are members of the U. S. G. A. While trying to get co-operation abroad for a general rule in golf which would apply the world over, the Americans now find that two sections of their own country are at olds.

As of the date of Sept. 1, all the new rules of golf except the one standardising the ball went into effect officially. The ball standardisation will become operative May 1, 1921.

LOST-BALL PENALTY

The main changes are making the penalty for a lost ball the same as for an out of bounds ball. The player must go back to the spot where he played the original shot and lose a stroke and distance.

Under the new stymie rule when a player is stymied he may remove his opponent's ball, thereby conceding his opponent the next stroke. When the player, within the limits of the putting green, lays himself a stymie this rule is not operative.

FOOTBALL IN ENGLAND HAS GOOD PROMISE

Southern League Is Absorbed Into English League As Third Division

London, Sept. 1.—There is no sign of any diminution in the popularity of Association football. Last season the interest in the game reached a stage far in advance of pre-war times. Increased charges for admission had no effect on the attendances, and the crowds attending matches were larger than ever before so large, indeed, that when the cup ties came round the grounds would not hold the would-be spectators at many of the ties. At the Stamford Bridge ground, the home of the Chelsea F. C., the enormous sum of £80,000 was paid in gate money during the season. The amateur side of the game shared in the enhanced interest and prosperity

LAWS OF THE GAME AMENDED

One important alteration has been made in the laws of the game and will come into force next Saturday. In future no player can be off-side from a throw-in from touch. The Foootball Association desired to apply the same ruling, to a free kick, and the Scottish F. A. favored a line across the field 25 yards from goal with no off-side beyond that line, but both proposals were vetoed by the International Board.

The full program of international engagements will be carried out, the matches to be played by England being as under:

Saturday, October 23—v. Ireland, in England.

Monday, March 14—v. Wales, in Wales.

Saturday, April 9—v. Scotland, at Glasgow.

The English amateurs will meet the amateurs of Wales and Ireland, but at present no fixtures have been made with Continental nations. The International Federation has been split by the attitude of certain neutrals towards the enemy countries, and although a new federation is mooted it is very doubtful if England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales will again enter any federation formed on the Continent.

LEAGUE CHANGES

The most striking change in the professional side of the game since last season is the formation of a Third Division of the Football League by the absorption of the Southern League First Division clubs. First-class League football will in future be under the control of one body, and by this time next year it is quite possible that another division will have been added.

For various reasons, the Southern League has never been an unqualified success. It has always been overshadowed by the Football League. Last year West Ham United seceded in order to get a place in the Football League Division II. Cardiff City followed their example last spring. As a result, the Southern League clubs made an appeal to the more powerful organisation to be taken over en bloc as a Third Division, and ultimately the League agreed with the proviso that the Southern League clubs should be associate members with no voting powers, and that one club only should be promoted to the Second Division for the following season.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and effic ent laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."
J. A. BOARMAN, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

THE NORTH DOOR

The North Door. By Greville MacDonald. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Company. $2.

Mr. MacDonald subtitles his latest book "A Romance." Without disparagement, and at the risk of redundancy, it might well be called "A Romantic Romance," for, from every avenue of approach, "The North Door" appears permeated with romanticism as well as romance. A story of smuggling, laid in the romantic setting of the coast of Cornwall, carrying us back to the close of the industrial revolution and the horrors of child labor attending that epoch, the yet deeper philosophic core of the book is one of symbolism, a modern aspect of romanticism, behind which Rousseau and more especially the philosophy and personality of William Blake are seen. Blake has been studied by Mr. MacDonald in a previous volume, "The Sanity of William Blake," and the hero of "The North Door," Parson Christopher Trevenna, symbolises William Blake quite as clearly as the north door of his church symbolises the path to the meeting and understanding of evil.

In an appendix, which furnishes admirable finishing touches to a story already made vitally realistic, are the words, "Christopher Trevenna was a dogmatic only so far as he was an enthusiast or as we today should rather express it, a mystic." On the other hand, Lady Evangeline Walrond, unhappily married, with whom he has been corresponding during a separation of sixteen years, is a blue-stocking of the period, reflecting the chilly pseudo-classicism of the age, yet at heart a romantic. The book comes to an end when not only her romantic nature but all romantic nature triumphs, when impulse is proved fundamentally good, when law is found inhuman, when to be a rebel is to be great.

All this lies below the surfaces; it forms the didactic and philosophic center of the romance. Full of serious purpose, "The North Door" offers a repast of "food for thought." Whether or not one likes the cooking is another matter.

The manner in which Mr. MacDonald has served his viands has great merit but many pecadilloes as well. A purist would be justified in commenting on the use, or rather, abuse of "so," "but," and "yet;" less justification attaches to criticising the use of Cornish dialect, for this serves to contrast the true English which is predominant. A more important objection, however, would be to the method of jumping from one point to another, from chapter here to chapter there, for all the world like a bug on the surface of the water. This forces a continuous change of mood throughout the work. The finesse and ingenuity in reproducing letters, diaries, and other mementos of the period, now in the style of Addison, now Lady Montagu, now Burke, is excellent.

No casual reader would be keen enough to guess Mr. MacDonald's vocation from the context of his book. It is unlikely that the "M. D." which follows his name on the title page would be observed. Certainly Dr. MacDonald has not suggested the consulting physician of King's College Hospital in his portrait of Dr. Ralph Hoblyn, the eccentric, who requires liquor to draw away the veil of insanity. An American might see method in Dr. Ralph's madness.

It would be a grave sin of omission should the Hawthorne note, heard throughout "The North Door," be left unmentioned. Something of Hawthorne's moral sense, his superstitious awe, his sternness, his artistry, and, to a certain extent, his power of construction are more than noticeable—they are outstanding.

George Brandes once declared that literature's task is to give a "Condensed representation of a people and an age." If this is true, then "The North Door" is surely entitled to consideration as literature, for it shows a real insight into the life of the people of England in 1790. Its one great drawback is its inner preachment—but even that is a mere matter of personal conviction.

THE SHADOWERS

The Man Who Convicted Himself. By David Fox. New York: Robert M. McBride and Co. $1.90.

"Literature," said Oscar Wilde, "is not read, while journalism is unreadable." Is a detective story under these uncomplimentary circumstances literary journalism or journalistic literature? Novelty and ingenuity are the keynotes to this detective story of thrills, "The Man Who Convicted Himself," and, although it is Mr. Fox's first story, others are promised to complete a series along the same idea.

Rex Powell, former criminal, organises a band of refined ex-criminals, experts in gems, fine arts, forgery, smuggling, fake spiritualism, medicine and other self" is the story of how "The Shadowers, Inc. He sends out circulars to a select clientele offering the services of the organisation to those who desire help on very serious cases, such as black mail, murder, robbery, and so forth, and who do not desire publicity. "The Man Who Convicted Himself" is the story of how The Shadowers, Inc." handle their first case in New York City. Instead of spoiling the story with a synopsis, it is sufficient to state that Oriental tradition, drugs and spiritualism fall in conflict with Americanised methods of detection, science and psychology in the hands of these reformed criminals.

There once was a form of the Gothic mystery novel which dealt with eerie castles, murders, family secrets, and foul crimes. In these novels the solution was one of mystery, unintelligible, yet nevertheless forced down the reader's throat. Today we demand an explanation which seems probable for every problem which is solved, for every clue which is discovered and followed. In short, for each circumstance there must be an explanation which sounds plausible. "The Man Who Convicted Himself," despite its novelty, strikes the reader as plausible. He is never constrained to set the book aside with the remark, "Oh, that's likely!" but plunges continually deeper into the mystery until the tangled threads once more are straightened out and success has been accomplished.

The Shadowers, Inc., have made a good beginning.

MATING IN THE WILDS

A Mating in the Wilds. By Ottwell Binns. New York: Alfred A. Knopf.

Somewhere in his "Travels With a Donkey" the greatly loved R. L. S. declares that to live outdoors with the One Woman is of all lives the most complete and free. Omar Khayyam's most frequently quoted quatrain gives beautiful phrasing to the same thought. And who among us, whether city-bred or country-bred, whether poet or delicatessen clerk, has not echoed in our heart the thought expressed by these two masters of the art of living?

Granting the universality of this day dream of every young heart, it is easy to foretell the popularity of any book which can artistically evoke in story form our common sentimental mirage.

Ottwell Binns's "A Mating in the Wilds" is an idyll of that great Northland which has so long been the stronghold of the Hudson Bay Company. The pages of his book are vibrant with the lure and lore of those sombre wilds where men bulk big and life runs large, the fascination of which Robert W. Service has celebrated in his sagas. In these pages many of the old, familiar characters—the picturesque voyageur, the villainous half-breed, the Oxford graduate with a shadowed past, the Indian girl, incarnate spirit of the wilderness-born and the beauty transplanted by circumstance from a hot-house civilisation—play their accustomed parts in the eternal pageant of the primal passions, always against the baleful background of a hostile nature, outraged and resentful of man's intrusion into her ultimate fastnesses.

The hero and heroine of Mr. Binns's novel are engaged from first page to last in never-ending struggles—struggles against the besetting menace of the malign and vengeful gods of the wilderness who seem bent upon their destruction, against their human enemies and against the sardonic fate which has made the man a social outcast for a crime of which he was convicted by a miscarriage of justice. Their Homeric labors in facing the hazards of the pathless wilderness, their narrow escapes from death at the hands of lawless Indians, forest fires and other dangers of the wilds are woven into an exciting tale told with literary excellence beyond the average of adventure stories. Through all their struggles the author sounds insistently the elemental call of mate to mate, sounds it in a way that is never banal and sometimes stirring. Despite the basest plots against them, this call at the last wins through to triumph; but not before noble and tragic sacrifices have been made and courage brought to the breaking point.

As we put the book down the opening line of "Evangeline" came naturally to mind as being in tune with the story's lyric note:

This is the forest primeval.
The murmuring pines and the hemlock—

The author of "A Mating in the Wilds" is a Lancashire minister who devotes his leisure to literary work. His first novel, published while he was still a collegian, was well received. Since that time four of his stories have been serialised by American magazines, and others have appeared in Australia. Mr. Binns's son served in Mesopotamia during the war with the Indian Army, and the author himself received a commission in the Fourth Volunteer Battalion of the Lancashire Fusilliers.

Ask The Squirrel
whether Oak is hard—he knows!

To appreciate to the full the value of Oak for flooring and panelling, it is necessary to know the conditions under which the tree itself comes to maturity.

It is the rule with trees that the faster they grow the poorer the quality of the timber they yield, and vice versa. The Oak is one of the slowest trees to grow, and is consequently the producer of the hardest and most valuable timber. The Oak is not found so much in the sheltered valleys, but on the bleak uplands, where from infancy it is exposed to the vicissitudes of wind and weather.

WE SUPPLY OAK FLOORING AND PLANKS FOR WAINSCOTING, ETC., KILN-DRIED AND GUARANTEED PRIME QUALITY.

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing, and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

The Old Florodora Sextette Love Germ Still Busy!

"Tell Me Pretty Maiden" —Whispered the Major—"It Might as Well Be You," Said She—and Lo and Behold Romance Stepped in Just as It Did Twenty Years Ago!

A GRAVE and dignified gentleman in the uniform of a major of the United States Army stood, not many days ago, upon the steps of the Hotel Astor in New York. If one had been observing him closely one would have seen the Major's shoulders straighten suddenly, his eyes brighten, a look of intensest interest spread over his militarily stern face. Had the observer followed his glance it would have been seen to rest upon a daintily curved, piquant damsel who, with a friend, was tripping along to the corner of Forty-fourth street.

Watching further, he would have seen the Major dart down the steps, take a position close behind the two pretty maidens, and follow them to the very entrance of the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. At the stage entrance of that theatre they vanished.

The Major meditated for a minute. "H'm!" he said, and "h'm!" again.

To-day the lady upon whom the ardent glances rested is Mrs. H. B. Clark, wife of the military gentleman to whom the glances belonged.

And thus it is proven that the curiously romantic love germ which made famous the old Florodora Sextette was disinterred after twenty years with the comic opera and is still busy and doing business in the same old way at the old stand. For Mrs. Clark was, when Major Clark saw her, the leader of the new sextette of the resuscitated opera and was even then on her way to rehearsal.

First of the sextette, she is the first to go the way the Florodora microbe has always led. How soon will others follow?

To philosophers, both on and off Broadway, it is extremely interesting to note that the germ is still running true to form and that the new sextette is beginning to marry just as did the old—that is, marry suddenly after somewhat unconventional meetings and woolngs. And also, marry well—which means wedding millions or high position or both. For, while the curious careers of the old beauties had their share of hectic happenings and tragedies, it is, nevertheless, a fact that "sextette luck in love" has passed into a proverb in stagedom.

Back in those days girls strenuously endeavored to get into the number because they believed it would "change their luck!" Socially ambitious girls, matrimonially ambitious girls, financially ambitious girls begged the managers to put them into the sextette. There was never any need to ask what sextette was referred to. For not even the musically famous one from "Lucia" had the vogue of the six enchanting maids who bobbed their heads, cast their intriguing glances, stepped their mincing steps, and sang—"I really must love someone, and it might as well be you!"

There were new companies formed. Four such toured the country then, capitalizing the fame of the show. As marriage or trips to Paris depleted their ranks, the sextetters were replaced. It is no exaggeration to say that altogether there were 100 original and replacing sextetters—all of whom had their great romances, whether happy or unhappy.

Major Clark and His Bride.

And at one time the waiting list for a place with the membership in this extraordinary matrimonial agency actually reached 500.

So when, on the opening night of Florodora's resurrection, what seemed the identical sextette of the old days came out the first entrance, heads bobbing beneath overweighting pompadours, picture hats big and beplumed nodding over lovely faces, graceful figures encased, it seemed uncomfortably, in tight-waisted trained lavender gowns, with black silk trimmings, all those of the original sextetters left within reaching distance were in the theatre to comment. And of course the gossip ran mostly upon whether these girls would have the same fate and fortunes as the others—in other words, whether the same old Florodora germ was still working.

Mrs. Albert Stokes, twenty years ago the Marjorie Relyea of the original six, watched the procession of lavender ghosts of the past. Sitting in a box, as became the wife of a millionaire, she agitatedly shifted the jeweled shoulder band of her satin evening gown. Then with her broker husband's aid she drew up her ermine cloak to cover the shoulder.

"Shades of the past!" she whispered. "That first girl is stunning. She looks like Vaughn Texsmith. Vaughn led the sextette out every night. 'First on the stage, first into matrimony' we said about Vaughn. You know her name was Smith. But that isn't what you'd call quite an original name. So because she was from Texas the management printed her name Texsmith on the programme. Sure enough, Vaughn was the first to marry. She married Mr. Hall. You know he owned silk mills in Paterson, N. J. He died two years ago and Vaughn is managing the business beautifully herself. I wouldn't be surprised if that girl were the first to marry, too. What's her name?"

A man connected with the management entered the box. He bowed to the jewelled woman. He said: "What do you think of the ghost sextette?"

"Gave me the shivers for a minute," admitted Mrs. Stokes. "We all admire the first girl. Who is she?"

"Ethel Lores. A girl of means and family and culture," replied the visitor. "Her father owns oil wells in Oklahoma. She was educated in Europe. She's a linguist. A little thoroughbred with a will of her own! Knows what she wants and gets it."

The while she was the subject of discussion in the auditorium, Miss Lores was taking down her blonde pompadour in the crowded dressing room.

"I saw him in front to-night," she remarked to her chum, Miss Betty Palmer.

"I did, too," rather primly assented Miss Betty. "Now, Ethel, do be careful. You are an incorrigible flirt. But don't pass the limit. You might be misunderstood."

Mrs. H. B. Clark, Recently Ethel Lores, of the New Sextette, and First to Go the Way of the Girls of the Old.

"He is a stunner in that uniform. A major. Did you notice his oak leaf?"

"I don't think I did. Don't be silly, Eth. He's too old for you.

"I like men who are older than myself. I dote on men of distinction. He has such distinguishing bearing.

"He didn't look very distinguished when he followed us from the Hotel Astor to the Forty-fourth Street Theatre to rehearsal this morning. He looked to me like any other Johnnie. Only old enough to know better. I'm glad I was with you when he first saw you. His eyes opened as though he would swallow you with them."

The first of the lavender ghosts of Florodora giggled.

"Shut up, Betty," she said amiably. "You're heading straight for old maidenhood."

Tap! Tap! "Come in," called Ethel Lores. A representative of the management thrust his head in discreetly and said: "When you've finished dressing I would like to present a gentleman in the audience."

"Who is it?" asked Betty Palmer.

"Major H. B. Clarke, of the United States Infantry."

The Famous Original Florodora Sextette in the Number That Won for Its "Pretty Maidens" So Many Interesting Romances

Ethel Lores in an Interesting Costume of the Life from Which Romance Has Taken Her

"Is he sitting in the front row?" Miss Lores looked up with interest.

"Yes."

"In uniform?"

"Yes."

"Now, Ethel!" implored Miss Palmer.

"Tell him we'll see him in the green room in ten minutes. Yes, you've got to go too, Betty. You know you're my chaperone."

Betty followed grumbling.

A tall man in the impressive uniform of the United States Army bowed low to Miss Lores. "I regret that I am a stranger in New York," he said. "Else I would have found a more conventional means of meeting you."

There was tea in the orange room of the Hotel Astor every afternoon for two weeks. On the last day of the two weeks the tea was prolonged into an early dinner.

The Major and the sextette leader sat alone in a corner of the orange room. Betty Palmer had tired for the day of her chaperoning. "It's of no use, anyway," she said. "I can restrain your speech. But I can't keep you from looking as though you'd like to eat each other."

The Major was too good a tactician to lose his—this heaven-sent or Betty-afforded—opportunity. He told her he had loved her from the moment his eyes met hers.

"I was standing on the steps of the Hotel Astor and you and your friend were passing."

"To a rehearsal at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre," she assented.

"The moment I saw you my heart leaped up to my throat. I said: 'There is the only girl in the world for me.'"

"And I—well, I liked you, too."

"But you know what Miss Palmer says."

"Don't mind her. Betty says so many things."

"Still you agreed with her when she told me that first day at tea that you said you were going to follow Miss Texsmith. You would be the first girl from the new sextette to marry a millionaire. I am only an army officer."

"But you're worth millions to me," Miss Lores's voice dropped so that he had to bend his head across the table to hear. He flushed ecstatically as she ended the sentence, "dear."

Whereupon a small purple velvet case was pushed across the table by a hand protruding from the sleeve of a uniform. The leader of the sextette opened it and breathed joyously at the sight. By the exercise of strategy he recovered the box, secured her small hand under the screening table cloth, and placed the ring upon her finger.

And so, as the novels delightedly say, "they were engaged." They met in March, became engaged in April, and were wedded in July. Miss Lores continued to lead the sextette only so long as it required to select her trousseau and have it made to her liking.

The marriage occurred in an old church on Broadway and Eighty-sixth street. Betty Palmer was the bridesmaid. There was a wedding supper on the breeze wooing roof of the Hotel Majestic. They went to Canada for their wedding journey. All this time they are furnishing their new home in a smart Long Island suburb.

The major is the owner of a farm journal published in Des Moines. But he will not take his bride to the western city.

"It is too far from Broadway for you, my darling," he said.

Ethel Lores Clark thinks she will not return to the stage. If her romance runs true to form, she will live happy ever after. None of the original sextetters ever came back to the footlights they forsook. Vaughn Texsmith motors to New York now and then to "see a show." Marie Wilson, another of the originals, who cleared a million on Wall Street by means of a tip furnished her by the late James R. Keene, married Frederick Gebhardt. Daisy Green, the large-eyed brunette, who followed Miss Texsmith on and off the stage in the mincing steps which punctuated "It Might As Well Be you," lingered for a time on the stage. But a broker in Denver induced her to leave Broadway forever behind her.

Agnes Wayburn, the tallest of the sextetters, she who followed Miss Green in the nightly procession across the Casino stage, was, while a sextetter, the wife of the stage director, Ned Wayburn. She divorced the director. Soon after she married a multi-millionaire of Johannesburg. She lives in the African city.

Marjorie Relyea they called the little widow of the sextette, her husband, William Davis Holmes, Andrew Carnegie's nephew, having dropped dead in the foyer of a New York hotel while his wife was out of town on a preliminary tour of Florodora. After several years she married Albert Stokes and enjoys her ease from stage cares.

Elaine Selover, one of the most bewitching members of the sextette, married Francis Gurney Smith, clubman and an officer of society's crack Troop A in Philadelphia. She died before the revival of Florodora. Margaret Walker resides in Atlantic City.

Miss Ethel Lores is the first to be missing from among the lavender ghosts.

BROTHEL DRAWING DATE ANNOUNCED

Number Of Resorts To Be Cut As Decreed At Meeting Of Ratepayers

In accordance with action taken at the meeting of ratepayers last spring in introducing a program by which brothels are in time to be eliminated from the International Settlement the number now in operation will be reduced one-fifth on April 1, 1921 when the number of licenses issued will be reduced in this proportion.

Those that will lose their licenses will be determined at a public drawing that is to be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on December 21 at the Town Hall. This drawing will be public.

The official notification in connection with the action to be taken is published in the current issue of the Municipal Gazette and is as follows:

"Notice is hereby given that under the authority of Resolution XV passed at the Annual Meeting of Ratepayers on April 7, 1920, and in pursuance of the recommendation contained in the report of the Special Vice-Committee published in the Municipal Gazette of March 19, one-fifth of the brothel licences, selected by lot, will be withdrawn on April 1, 1921.

"A public drawing will take place at the Town Hall on Tuesday, December 21, at 3 o'clock p.m., when the brothels to be closed will be determined. The drawings will be public and all interested are invited to be present.

"Tickets of admission may be obtained on application to The Revenue Office, No. 7a the Bund, and a list of the licensed brothels will be exhibited at the Police Stations and at the Revenue Office from Thursday, November 25.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, October 12.—The American taxes for the last fiscal year were approximately $1,500,000,000 greater than the previous year, approximately three-quarters of that amount being income-tax. The internal revenue receipts from Hawaii were $11,729,298 and from the Philippines $1,423,478.

Chinese Back From France Aided By Y.M.C.A. Work

A department of the local Y.M.C.A. work which is receiving considerable impetus is that of the Industrial work which was recently inaugurated in order to meet the heavy demands for assistance in one way or another made by the returning laborers from France, South Africa, and Mesopotamia.

With aid from the International Committee, of New York, a staff of three capable secretaries was engaged and during the past summer they have been developing the work along a number of lines. Two of these secretaries were themselves engaged in Association work for the laborers in France and have also studied in America, and are therefore particularly fitted for the important tasks that confront them.

There is a steady stream of these laborers into the Association every day, some needing identification at the bank, others sick and infirm, and still others looking for jobs. The sick are sent usually to Shantung Road hospital and St. Luke's hospital, while those in search of work are sent over to the Public Works Department, or to the Municipal or French police, which departments have to date given employment to several hundred of these men. The more skilled are turned over to the concerns that may be needing their particular services.

The men are also given friendly counsel and many a difficult tangle has been straightened out through the painstaking care of the secretaries. Whenever possible, the boat on which they arrive is met by one of the secretaries and the men assisted in every possible way immediately on landing. The last shipment of laborers to arrive at Shanghai come by the Porthos, which arrived last Tuesday.

The work of the Industrial Department, however, is not confined to returned laborers, but a number of centers are being opened up in the industrial sections of Shanghai, where lectures on health and sanitation, travel, and subjects of general interest, moving picture entertainments, etc., are given, educational classes conducted, and assistance given to the men in the writing of letters, saving of money, etc.

The Industrial Department of the Y.M.C.A. is directed by a committee of which Mr. H. Y. Moh, the cotton magnate, is the active chairman, and Dr. C. T. Wang and Messrs. C. L. Nieh, S. Z. Zee, C. H. Wang, C. F. Hsia, T. Y. Chang, C. C. Bau, T. L. Siao, and Chen Kin-cheng are the members.

S.V.C. Contribution

Lieut.-Col. R. Marr Johnson C.M.G., D.S.O., Commandant, Shanghai Volunteer Corps desires to acknowledge with thanks the undermentioned further contributions towards the Prize Fund for the forthcoming Annual Rifle Meeting which opens on October 16.

SCIATICA AND RHEUMATISM.

'Agonies That Can Be Banished.

Real agony that pierces your hip and that shoots down your leg—agony that grows worse when you are warm in bed and longing for sleep—that is Sciatica. Pains in your joints and muscles, perhaps accompanied by swelling, stiffness, redness, feverishness, thirst, loss of appetite and a general feeling of weakness and misery, these are the symptoms of Rheumatism.

Both Rheumatism and Sciatica are due to the same cause, a debilitated, poisoned state of the blood. This explains why Dr. Williams' pink pills have proved so successful as a remedy. They purify and enrich the blood, and they make new, rich red blood at every dose, thus revitalising the nerves, invigorating the digestion and restoring health and strength to the whole body.

Anaemic people are easy victims to rheumatism, and on the other hand rheumatism rapidly thins the blood, thus inducing anaemia. For anaemia and all the disorders arising therefrom Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people have been the most famous remedy in the world for over thirty years. They are obtainable from dealers everywhere, and $1.50 the bottle, $8 for six bottles, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai. Today is the best time to commence your own cure.

Notification No. 296

FAMINE RELIEF FUND (144/1)

The public is hereby infomed that, by order of the Ministry of Communications, the following measures will be adopted on this line on and after 11th October, 1920.

(1) At the time of selling passenger tickets at all stations, a FAMINE RELIEF FUND will be collected in addition to passenger fare irrespective of distances covered by the ticket, namely:

(a) For each first class ticket $0.20
(b) ,, ,, second ,, ,, ..... $0.10
(c) ,, ,, third ,, ,, ...5 copper cents

(2) For through passenger tickets, the above fund will be collected in accordance with the number of lines by which the holders travel, i.e. for every line the above amount corresponding to its class will be collected in addition to the passenger fare.

(3) For each freight invoice, 5% of its total charges will be collected in addition for the above fund.

(4) For each parcel ticket, 3% of its total charges will be collected in addition for the above fund.

(5) The above additional fund will be collected by station masters of all stations at the time of selling tickets or issuing goods or parcel invoice, as the case may be, and the amount so collected shall be entered on the freight invoice. In the case of "To Pay Accounts" for which the freight is not collected by the station masters, such fund shall be collected by the Accounts Department at the time of collecting the respective freight whereupon receipts are to be issued.

(6) For military transportation, transportation of railway material for home and other lines and for free or reduced rate benevolent transportations, no famine relief fund will be collected.

(7) The above named amounts are to be paid in big dollars, payment made in small silver coins will be charged 2 copper cents extra for every ten-cent piece.

(sd) S. C. SHU,
Managing Director.

Hankow Market

Hankow, October 6, 1920.

FINANCE AND MONEY MARKET

Another dull week with a few Bills offering at the end of the week owing to the drop in rates. A little inter-Bank T.T. was done and there was a small demand for remittance. Taels T.T. on Shanghai firmed up to 96.925 Chinese market. Foreign Banks would sell at 97. Dollars rose to 70-70.2 and eased at the end of the week to 69.925-70.125 buyers and sellers. Interest 14½ percent after 18¾ percent. Changsha Exchange Nominal.

IMPORTS

Conditions remain much as last reported. The market is dull and there is practically no business. A few clearances of Greys and Blacks have to be noted. There is no Yarn business.

EXPORTS

The outstanding feature has been drop in Exchange. This will probably help towards meeting Home values for most products for the present, but it is difficult to say whether it will react favorably on the Home market in the immediate future.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filing with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

Red Tape Was Fate For British Soldier

Corpl. Oliver Died While Health And Pension Officials Delayed

London, Aug. 18.—While the Insurance Committee of the Ministry of Health and the Ministry of Pensions were dilly-dallying over the case of Corp. Oliver of Farnham, Surrey, the Corporal, who had done brave service in the war, died of tuberculosis of the lungs. The official chronology of the case well illustrates how red tape may cause a fatal delay. In brief:

May 22—The case came before the Surrey Committee on Pensions and they sent a request to the Pensions Ministry that it should be dealt with.

June 4—The further request was sent that Corp. Oliver should be examined as soon as possible.

June 15.—An urgent request was made for a reply to the two previous letters.

June 17—Yet another urgent request was made for an answer.

June 29—A request was sent that Corp. Oliver be examined, as he was not expected to live.

July 1—The persistent Surrey Committee wired for instructions.

July 6—Action was taken at last. The District Controller of Medical Services at Guildford, near Farnham, visited Corp. Oliver's house. The Corporal was dead.

The case has excited so much indignation that questions about it were asked in the House of Commons. The circumlocution necessary to reach a worthy soldier dying of consumption was explained—to the satisfaction of only the officials concerned.

Indian's Skeleton Dug Up

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 28.—Lying near a pile of coins struck during the reign of George III. a skeleton, believed to be that of an Indian of the Cornplanter tribe, was unearthed by employes of the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company digging a ditch recently in the yard of Dr. G. L. Bumgarner, in Federal Street, Natrona. Several blue beads, carefully carved, were found with the money, which possibly was buried with the Indian to defray the cost of the trip to the "Happy Hunting Grounds." The skeleton is believed to have been buried more than a century and a half.

MARRIAGE

ISSAIEFF-IVANOFF: On 13th October, 1920, at the Russian Church, Shanghai, Irene, eldest daughter of General and Mrs. Ivanoff to Captain Boris D. Issaieff, of the Postal Service, Nanking.

The Death Of Li Shun

THE curtain unfolds on another act in the amazing tragedy of China. And nothing more dramatic, more stirring, more fraught with potentialities for good or evil, is to be found in all the history of China, than is to be found in this act.

It opens with the suicide or assassination of Gen. Li Shun, Tuchun of this province, and Inspector General of Kiangsu, Kiangsi and Anhui, with headquarters at Nanking. Precisely the cause of the suicide or murder is not known. Three letters left by the dead chieftain indicate self destruction because of despondency due to his inability to bring peace, good government and progress to China. There are persistent reports that he wrote these letters under duress and was then slain.

In either case, what was the particular impending coup d'etat which he was opposing and which led to his death?

We hear from Peking, through a private code message containing only six characters that President Hsu Shih-chang has resigned and fled to Tientsin and that Gen. Chang Tso-lin, Tuchun of Fengtien, has seized the capital. Chang Tso-lin besides being pro-Japanese is a Monarchist, as much so as his friend Chang Hsun. The latter is the general who attempted to restore the Manchus in 1917. He was promised the support of most of the war lords, and with a picked bodyguard he entered Peking. And the next day the dragon flag reappeared and the Little Empero was restored.

On the following day, however, the Little Emperor was back home and the dragon flag had been replaced by the flag of the Republic. And Chang Hsun was in hiding in the Dutch Legation. He remained there a long time.

Recently, under pressure from Chang Tso-lin, the President pardoned Chang Hsun. And since then, especially since the victory over Tuan and the Anfu Club, Chang Tso-lin has been urging the appointment of Chang Hsun as Inspector General of the Yangtsze provinces. This was the Sword of Damocles that swung over the head of Li Shun.

Reports received in Shanghai last night were to the effect that the dragon flag was again flying in Peking. If these reports are confirmed it will simply mean that another attempt to restore the monarchy is in progress, Chang Tso-lin stepping into the shoes that Chang Hsun jumped out of three years ago.

Chang Hsun failed because the tuchuns, including Tuan Chi-jui, who had promised to support him, turned on him at the last minute. They thus disposed of a powerful war lord. They have recently disposed of two others—Little Hsu and Tuan. If they now have lured Chang Tso-lin into the same trap that caught Chang Hsun it will be because Chang Tso-lin is even a bigger fool and a more consummate traitor than his friend Chang Hsun proved himself to be, for Chang Tso-lin has his friend's fate before him.

But Chang Tso-lin has this advantage to start with: He has one way or another brought about the removal of Li Shun before moving into Peking. The death of Li Shun would seem to have been the signal.

But this particular act in the long and painful tragedy is still being played as we go to press.

Li Shun took his life in order to give new life to his country. It has ever been the way of the East. Western thought on suicide is thus summed up by Shakespeare:

For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of despised love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office, and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin? Who would fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,
The undiscovered country from whose bourn
No traveller returns, puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear the ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus conscience doth make cowards of us all.—
—Hamlet Act III Sc. I.

After the death of Count Nogi and his wife, who committed suicide in loyal sympathy with the death of their sovereign in 1912 The Times (London) had a great deal of correspondence on the subject of suicide.

A brilliant young Chinese student contributed the following paragraphs among others:

"The subject of suicide is both repellent and fascinating at the same time. It has baffled the efforts of philosophers and psychologists, and today its mysteries are still unravelled. In despair Confucius exclaimed, when one knows not all about life itself, how can he pretend to know about death?

"Of late in China, one finds many instances of a form of suicide utterly incomprehensible to the people of the West. They may admire it, but they cannot understand it. I refer to the tragedies of those who lamented the impotence of their country and deplored their inability to ameliorate its conditions. If in their lifetime they could not accomplish their cherished desires, they hoped that by their death the motive of their deed might fire the imagination of their compatriots and stir them up to vigorous action."

MR. ASQUITH'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY

Mr. Asquith was, of course, well aware that his wife was writing a book of recollections, but he saw none of it, and the subject was seldom referred to.

One morning at breakfast, however, Mrs. Asquith told her husband that the book was going to be published and that she was to get £13,000 for it.

Mr. Asquith looked very astonished for a moment, and then remarked, "well, my dear, all I can say is that I hope it is not worth it."

Harding Recognises Orient Problem, Says Nation Must Back Coast States

Marion (O.), September 14.—Following is the text of the speech of Senator Warren G. Harding to the California pilgrims who journeyed across the continent to pay their respects to the Republican nominee and to lay before him their State problems, industrial, economic and political:

Americans—I greet you who have come from far places with deep gratitude for the honor you have done the cause I represent, which, I believe, is the cause of all the people of America.

There is no sectionalism in the United States, and if we all, by tolerance and justice and patriotism, stand together—the North and the South, the East and the West—we will perpetuate that spirit by which America has had her being and her glories, coming through stress and storm at all times, but always coming through.

America first. That spirit, my friends, is behind our individual citizenship, which conceives government as being the expression of a community of interests, and not a paternal or autocratic or one-man source of pretended benevolence. It is an absurd idea that government may be the distributer of magic resources. The only resources of a government are the resources that the citizens put into it.

DICTATORSHIP SET UP, SENATOR TELLS HEARERS

Let us not allow those who would like to retain the autocratic power which the war put into their hands to deceive free Americans with the delusion that "Democracy" painted as a sign over their works conceals the fact that they yhave robbed us of free democracy. They have set up a one-man dictatorship, which they, of course, desire to perpetuate, and which finds in their various spokesmen the expression. "We are in full accord."

I confess little patience with those who complain about that which they choose to call a Senate "Oligarchy." Those who prefer autocratic personal government to the representative institutions which we inherited and under which we have wrought to the astonishment of the world, naturally oppose the Senate exercising its constitutional functions. They do not like representative government and its reflective deliberation which discriminate between ephemeral passion and popular fancies on the one hand and dependable public opinion on the other.

The Senate is not popular with those who attempted to merge inspiring nationality in paralysing internationality: it is not in favor with those who dreamed world government, backed by a military alliance, to be preferable to the exercise of American conscience which gave us eminence for rare unselfishness. Those who rail at the Senate accept the Constitutional existence of Senate and House only when these bodies from the people are "in perfect accord" to perpetuate dictatorial rule.

I like to remind our people that they elect members of both House and Senate, and in these two bodies of Congress are more than 500 men commissioned by the American millions, through popular vote, to speak and act for them and to share the solemn responsibilities of Government which are far too heavy for one man to assume.

CONGRESS WAS DISPOSED TO PREPARE FOR WAR

My own observation has been that Congress was naturally disposed to prepare for war and, having learned the unspeakable cost of failure to prepare for war, was still more disposed to prepare for peace. In the unhindered exercise of its Constitutional function, it would have done both.

With the return to Constitutional Government under Republican sponsorship, we mean to restore co-ordinated activities and Congresssional responsibility. There will be no trespass of the executive on the Constitutional rights of Congress; there will be no surrender to Congress of the Constitutional powers of the executive.

Reflectively contemplating a seven-year period of fine words, much dictation, thinkering with business, and unwarranted assumption, I confess little wonder the Democratic party complains about a Senate "oligarchy."

Of course, they are irritated.

The Senate "oligarchy," as they call it, and the "oligarchy" of the House of Representatives, forced them toward efficiency in making war, and forced them toward some efficiency, though much belated, in reconstruction for peace, and interfered to stay the prodigal waste of the taxpayers' money, and prevented America from being caught into the shares and tangles of their blundering in Paris. Of course they are irritated because representative government—that safeguard of our Republic—got in their way. If they were quite frank about it they would speak with equal irritation about another "oligarchy"—an "oligarchy" which they never consult much—the will of the American people.

'WE HAVE HAD ENOUGH,' NATION'S VERDICT, HE SAYS

It is a strange and deplorable thing that the control of the Democratic party has fallen into hands that even now are reaching out in their "perfect accord" to perpetuate the condition of extreme centralisation from which America has suffered, to perpetuate the narcotic of phrases by which American citizenship was to be lulled into inactivity. What would Thomas Jefferson say to this? What do those Democrats who have looked upon their party as one entrusted with the safeguarding of local rights say to it?

I think they, with us, contemplating the precipice toward which these years of autocratic bungling have led us, will see that it is not only a precipice over which our prosperity may be flung, but over which sound American representative government might also be dragged, and that they, with the great mass of Americans, will say: "We have had enough."

When Americans say, as they do say, "America first," they mean no one-man power, but our America as a people whose will is expressed through their representative government.

Today, for example, you have come here from the Pacific Coast of our country. I do not doubt that Americans on the Coast are troubled in their minds about the Oriental question, as it is called. That question raises every interpretation of our watchword, "America first," for it involves four sets of obligations. It involves our obligations to great foreign powers; it involves the obligations of all America toward one group of American states and their peoples, but it also involves the obligations of that group of states to the Nation.

NATION MUST SUPPORT COAST STATES IN STAND

There is abundant evidence of the dangers which lurk in racial differences. I do not say racial inequalities—I say racial differences. I am ever ready to recognise that the civilisation of the Orient is older than ours, that her peoples have their proud and honorable traditions.

In spite of the honor of these Oriental people and in spite of their contributions to the world's advancement, it is conceivable that they may be so different in racial characteristics or in manner of life or practice from other peoples of equal honor and achievement that, no matter whether it be on the soil of one or upon the soil of the other, these differences, without raising any question of inferiority, superiority or inequality, may create, as I believe they have created upon our Pacific Coast, without blame to either side—a friction that must be recognised. The Nation owes it to the Pacific Coast to recognise that fact. The Nation owes it to the Pacific Coast states to stand behind them in necessary measures consistent with our national honor to relieve them of their difficulties.

The problem incident to racial differences must be accepted as one existing in fact, and must be adequately met for the future security and tranquility of our people. We have learned during the anxieties of world war the necessity of making the citizenship of this Republic not only American in heart and soul, but American in every sympathy and every aspiration.

CITES NATION'S RIGHT TO RESTRICT IMMIGRATION

No one can tranquilly contemplate the future of this Republic without anxiety for abundant provision for admission to our shores of only the immigrant who can be assimilated and thoroughly imbued with the American spirit.

From the beginning of the Republic America has been a haven to the oppressed and the aspiring from all the nations of the earth. We have opened our doors freely and have given to the peoples of the world who came to us the fullness of American opportunity and political liberty. We have come to that stage of our development which of necessity must be assumed by those who accept the grant of American opportunity. From this time on we are more concerned with the making of citizens than we are with adding to the man power of industry or the additional human units in our varied activities.

As a people and a Nation, as Governor Stephens has said, we do have the moral, the natural and the legal international rights to determine who shall or who shall not enter our country and participate in our activities. With a new realisation of the necessity of development of a soul distinctly American in this Republic we favor such modification of our immigration laws and such changes in our international understandings, and such a policy relating to those who come among us, as will guarantee to the citizens of this Republic not only assimilability of alien born, but the adoption by all who come of American standards, economic and otherwise, and a full consecration to American practices and ideals.

AGRICULTURE IS BACKBONE OF NATION, HE SAYS

I find that your presence here gives me opportunity to put before the American people, through you, a consideration of profound importance, to which I have been giving attention and will continue to give a deserved attention. Changes have been taking place in our National life which require recognition and study and none is more important than that which has made it necessary for us to assure ourselves that American agriculture shall be restored to vigor and prosperity. I believe and have said repeatedly, that the agriculture of a nation and not its industry, its commerce, or its cities, is the Nation's backbone. I believe, and I have said repeatedly, and we must put the land-owing farmer back on our soil, and provide for the loan of the capital when necessary to buy and operate farms; that we must encourage co-operation in the buying by the consumer and in the selling by the farmer, of our food products; that we must increase our facilities of roads, railroads and motor trucking; that we must invite the farmer into our representative and executive branches of Government to get his counsel and assistance, and I have said that these measures were not special privileges for the farmer but that the preservation of our agriculture with sufficient prosperity, so that it should share equally with industry and have equal ability to pay labor, was not only the farmer's business but everybody's business—the consumer's business, the city dweller's business and the vital concern of every one who wants to have for himself and his children three meals a day.

CASE OF FRUIT GROWERS IS USED AS EXAMPLE

I think a case in point is your own citrus and other fruit industries of California. America must ask herself if she will allow these industries to be threatened in their very existence by the invasion of foreign-grown fruits cultivated, in some cases, under a subsidy given by a foreign government, by labor which knows nothing of our own American standards of living. My answer is that just as the fruit growers of California are willing to put America first, so must America be first in upholding their efforts, and that if to save this or any other worthy and developing agricultural industry of America, tariff protection is necessary, then tariff protection must be given.

I mark out the example of California agricultural industry not only because you are Californians, but because you are Americans, and because the preservation of agriculture is vital, all-American and, above all, the interest of the consumer.

CHEAP LABOR MENACES AMERICAN PRODUCTS

It may well be that a long list of our farm products will require a Republican protective tariff policy. There is an increasing menace to our production of a number of farm products in the opening of those countries which can produce under extensive methods with labor cheaper than our own.

The Republican protection of specific American agricultural industries must not be based upon and group or class which, either by the imposition or removal of rates of duty thinks it will profit. Our protection by the tariff of agricultural industry must be based upon our concern for the American manufacturer, the American farmer and the American consumer. We are acting to safeguard and balance the interest of all—that indeed, in applying protective duties or removing them, we are acting with full conscience of the rights of all at home and abroad—that we are acting for "America first."

Dyer Tells Of Amritsar Massacre

British General Says All India Would Have Been Ablaze Had He Not Ordered His Soldiers To Fire

Brigadier-General R. E. H. Dyer, who ordered the massacre at Amritsar, which resulted in the slaying of four hundred Indians and the wounding of about fifteen hundred within ten minutes, has issued his defense.

The document is issued in the form of a White Paper. The main points of the defense are:

Amritsar was the focus-point of a rebellion, which aimed at setting India ablaze.

No unnecessarily harsh measures were used.

The measures taken were actually approved by the higher authorities, the seal of approval being set on the Brigadier-General's action by subsequent promotion.

No warning was given of the charges to be made against him by the Hunter Committee, which was appointed by the Government to inquire into events in the Punjab.

CITES HIS PROMOTION

"My treatment for nearly a year after the events at Amritsar further requires consideration," says Dyer. "I had reported these events at once. Not only was I in no way criticised for my handling of the crisis, but I received immediate official approval. I was likewise in no way suspended from my duties, pending inquiry, the normal military course in the case of an officer whose conduct is to be the subject of censure or penalty. ON THE CONTRARY, I WAS PROMOTED, AND ALSO GIVEN A COMMAND ON ACTIVE SERVICE IN THE FIELD.

"The principle is laid down by the Secretary of State that an officer in suppressing civil disturbances must use a minimum amount of force necessary for the purpose. . . . I say with all sincerity that I acted upon this principle when firing upon the assembly at Amritsar on April 13, 1919, and according to the best of my judgment I used no more force than was required by the occasion.

General Dyer then enters into details with regard to the events which led up to Amritsar disturbances, and says he was confronted not with a riot but with open rebellion. He tells how after any assembly gathering in defiance of it would be dispersed by force of arms, that he learnt that a counter-proclamation had been issued, stating that his action was mere pretence, and that he dared not fire, and that a meeting would be held in the Jallianwallah Bagh in the afternoon.

Referring next to the meeting in the Jallianwallah Bagh, where he found a crowd of from 15,000 to 20,000, General Dyer says:

"The position was itself an anxious one from a purely military point of view, as I was liable to be assailed from behind, and the extrication of my small force from the city would have been practically impossible if, after the firing, the rebels had maintained an aggressive spirit.

HESITATION DANGEROUS

"Hesitation, I felt, would be dangerous and futile, and, as soon as my fifty riflemen had deployed, I ordered fire to be opened. The crowd began to scatter to the various exits. After some firing, two groups appeared to be collecting, as though to rush us, and, on my Brigadier-Major calling my attention to this, I directed fire specially to the two points in question, and dispersed the groups.

"When 1,650 rounds or thereabouts had been fired, and roughly ten minutes from the time of opening fire, the whole crowd had dispersed, and I was able to lead the body of troops back in security, having, as it turned out, established general security in Amritsar and the neighborhood for every one. The spirit of the organised mobs was effectively broken, and the unrest in the countryside stopped."

General Dyer adds that he reported his action to Divisional Headquarters next day, and received from the Divisional Commander by aeroplane the message:

"Your action correct, and Lieutenant-Governor approves." Dyer continues:

"The following may be taken as a fair summary of the motives and grounds of my action:

(a) I had before me the general situation summarised in the dispatch of the Secretary of State and all its attendant military dangers. In addition, I knew of the cloud from Afghanistan, which broke three weeks later.

(b) I had before me in the Jallianwallah Bagh not a fortuitous gathering, which, at worst, had assembled negligently, or even recklessly, contrary to a proclamation, but a mob that was there with express intent to challenge Government authority, and defy me to take any effective action against it, and in particular to defy me to fire upon it.

(c) I knew that it was, in substance, the same mob that had been in course of organisation for some days, and had committed the hideous crime of April 10, and was the power and authority which for two days had ruled the city in defiance of the Government. I had, in fact the rebel army in front of me.

LOOKED AT REALITIES

"I looked at the realities of the case as a whole, as a soldier was bound to do. If any dominant motive can be extracted it was the determination to avert from the European women and children and those of the law-abiding Indian community the fate which I was convinced would be theirs if I did not meet the challenge and produce the required effect to restore order and security. I am conscious that it was this motive which gave me the strength of will to carry out my duty.

"The terms of the thanks which I afterward received from so many Indians showed that a cloud of apprehension rested upon the minds not only of European but of the law-abiding Indian population as a whole regarding the fate of their children and womenfolk during these fateful days."

General Dyer, in explaining his "crawling" order, which closed the

Items From Foreign Countries Replete With Historic Interest

In the days when the electric telegraph was a new idea, and consequently a mystery to the masses, there was trouble one evening in the Bank of England. The business for the day had closed and the balance was not correct, there being a deficit of a hundred pounds sterling. It was not the money but the error that must be found, and for the officers and clerks there could be no sleep until the mystery was cleared. Throughout the night and all the next day a force of men was busy. The money was surely gone from the vaults, but no one could discover how.

The following morning a clerk suggested that the error might have occurred in parking for shipment to the West Indies some boxes of specie that had been sent to Southamption to be placed on the vessel Mercator. The clerk's suggestion was acted upon. Here was an opportunity to test the powers of the telegraph—lightning versus steam, with steam having forty-eight hours' start. Very soon the telegraph asked a man in Southampton: "Has Mercator sailed?

"Just weighing in," came the reply.

"Stop her in the Queen's name," flashed back the telegraph. "She is stopped," was the response.

"Have on deck certain boxes (marks given); weigh them carefully and telegraph result," was the next message from the bank.

These instructions were obeyed, and one box was found to be something like a pound ten ounces heavier than the others—just the weight of the missing sovereigns.

"All right. Let the ship go," was the last message. The West India house was debited with the hundred pounds and the Bank of England relapsed into its customary routine.

On the west coast of India is found a species of oyster, Placuna placenta, whose shell consists of a pair of roughly circular plates about six inches in diameter, thin and white. At present these oysters are collected for the pearls they may contain, although few are fit for the use of the jeweller. But in the early days of English rule the shells were employed for window panes. Cut into little squares, they produced a very pretty effect, admitting light like frosted glass.

When the Bombay Cathedral was built, at the beginning of the eighteenth century, its windows were paned with these oyster shells. In Goa they are still thus employed.

On September 20 occurred the fiftieth anniversary of the unification of Italy, and the Order of the Sons of Liberty (Italian) were to celebrate it in a spectacular way throughout America by all sorts of holiday festivities.

So forgetful is the world of even great events that the long years of effort to free themselves from Austrian and other foreign domination by Italians have become dimmed and the great names of Mazzini, Garibaldi, Cavour and other patriots who schemed and fought for their country's unity are seldom spoken. This is to be changed next September.

In 1870, as a result of the defeat of the French at Sedan, the grasp of Napoleon III. was loosened from the devoted peninsula and Rome was redeemed. This date has been annually celebrated in Italy, but its fiftieth recurrence makes its celebration worldwide.

In Italy a grand Masonic congress was to mark the day and postage stamps commemorative of the historic significance of the date are now being issued. In New York there was to be held a parade and picnic with mass meetings, where prominent Italian orators will address the people.

French troops had occupied Rome for twenty-one years when the battle of Sedan occurred and Napoleon, as one of the last acts of power, ordered them to return to France. With the withdrawal of these troops the Italian nationalists easily overcame the slight resistance of the Papal guards and entered the Eternal City proclaiming Victor Emmanuel II, King of Italy.

From the legacy of hate left by their occupation of Lombardy, the war waged against the Austrians during the years 1914-1918 was one of the bitterest in the world struggle. In the celebration the Italians were also to celebrate their recent victories and crown the distinguished officers who led their armies.

Box-Car Bill was shrinking glumly in a car about to start;
in a corner Frank sat dumbly,
and for speech they had no heart.
They had an intimation they would best be "moving on." 'Twas an earnest invitation, specifying
"leave by dawn." So they found an "empty" waiting, which they saw would have to suit, and they boarded sans debating on the order of their route. But the silence soon was broken, for it vexed Friend Box-Car's soul, which his words, so freely spoken, show was mighty full of dole. "Well," said he, "no use my sayin' that we

Garrett P. Serviss's Article

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest)

"If it were possible to construct a telescope of sufficient power to enable us to view the surface of our near neighbors—Mars, Venus, Mercury—what, in the opinion of astronomers, would be revealed to our gaze. This has been a tremendous thought to me for years, and I will anxiously await your reply—F. L. O., Chicago."

The idea underlying your inquiry is, truly, one of the most "tremendous thoughts" that an inhabitant of the earth can entertain. It is akin to the thoughts of a castaway on a lone island who looks across an untraversable expanse of sea and perceiving other islands a far off, bearing many outward resemblances to his own, wonders whether there are upon them intelligent beings exactly like him.

Would a man in such a situation ever become so absorbed in his immediate surroundings as to forget his thoughts about the inhabitants of those distant islands? That would depend upon his mental characteristics. If he were like you he would, to the end of his days continue to turn that problem over and over in his mind. He would not regard his failures to settle the question as a decisive reason for shutting it out of his mind. His philosophical instinct would tell him that his capacity to formulate such a question in spite of his inability to solve it proved his intellectual superiority to the merely physical obstacles that stood in his way. He would say to himself: "I am baffled now, but I may not always be baffled. The thought that there are beings akin to me in those islands shall be an inspiration as long as I live. If I abandoned it I should be oppressed and smothered by the sense of my oneliness in the midst of this alien vastitude."

But I am sorry to say, some astronomers, leaders in their science, dismiss, or appear to dismiss, summarily from their mind the thought of the habitability of other planets. They are apt to call any thinking on that subject "sensationalism." I remember how, when I was a comparatively young man, I was pained by hearing a famous astronomer, for whom I had a high regard, remark with a sneer, as he picked up from among my books one by Camille Flammarion on this very subject: "Humph! 'Real Worlds and Imaginary worlds'—that's waste of time. What does he know about it?"

Now, the fact was that Flammarion did not pretend to possess definite knowledge about the inhabitants of other plants. He expressly said that such knowledge did not exist, but he held that it was well worth while to treat the subject philosophically, and speculatively, because of its immense human interest. But astronomers of a less philosophical cast of mind have no patience with such views. They say—and justly enough from their viewpoint—that their time is too precious to be spent in what is, for them, a vain sort of thinking.

As far as it goes, the positive knowledge that we at present possess concerning the state of things on such planets as Mars, Venus and Mercury is not sufficient to enable us to say, absolutely, that they are or are not inhabited, nor to say approximately (granting their habitability) what would be the appearance, structure and characteristics of their inhabitants.

Judging by terrestrial standards, it would seem that Mercury must be a globe with a very thin atmosphere, without water, subjected to a degree of solar heat several times greater than that poured upon the earth, but variable to an enormous extent passing from one extreme to the other in a period of only about six weeks. We should also expect on the same grounds, to find Mercury's surface so burned and scorched that at least no life like any on the earth could exist there. It would, as far as we can judge, be to our eyes a universal desert, one great "Death Valley," on which an ocean of water suddenly poured would burst into one vast cloud of superheated steam. But—the telescope gives very imperfect views of the surface of Mercury, and there may be conditions there utterly unimagined by us.

As for Venus, she seems to have an abundant, and perhaps, a very cloudy atmosphere, with plenty of water, with gravitational conditions very like those of the earth, with an average temperature something like twice that of our planet, and (unless it be true that she rotates on her axis in the same period that she revolves around the sun), a remarkable stability and equality of seasons. My guess is that we should see Venus abundantly inhabited, but any attempt to picture the appearance of the inhabitants, or to describe their degree of intelligence must be based on pure hypothesis.

Mar's so-called polar snows offer the strongest argument for its being in a condition suitable for the maintainance of life forms having an essential nature like those of the earth. Its "canals" are enigmatical markings, which, it can be denied, show changes varying with changes of the seasons, that are strongly suggestive of the existence of conditions amidst which life might flourish. The "canals" and the polar "snows" appear to have a close relationship.

street where Miss Sherwood was assaulted, says:

"The attempted murder of Miss Sherwood was probably the most dastardly outrage in the whole rebellion. The order that no native should pass down the street except on all fours was meant that the street should be regarded as holy ground, and it is a complete misunderstanding to suppose that the order was an insulting mark of race inferiority. It is well understood by the natives in relation to holy places. The fact that some prisoners went down the street on all fours was a pure accident and quite contrary to my intention."

NEW RICH OF EUROPE ARE GAMBLING MAD

Millions Of Francs Lost Nightly By Profiteers At French And Belgian Resorts

DAZZLING GEM DISPLAY

Visits Made Between Evenings At Casino To Grim, War-Ruined Areas

Ostend, August 30.—At a watering-place on the French side of this coast along which the war was largely fought so recently one French manufacturer who in the war made an immense fortune in manufacturing munitions, lost in one evening at the gambling tables a round million of francs. Next evening it was the turn of a young Cuban millionarie who dropped a million and a quarter francs on the green tables, and every evening the same merry game of money losing goes on along the entire coast.

Monte Carlo is no longer the only place where play is high, and two and three million francs profit to the Casino from an evening's play is now as much the rule as the exception at Deauville and though to a lesser extent, here.

European war profiteers have gone gambling mad and their fortunes in the past holiday month have changed hands with a rapidity even greater than that with which they were made. How it will all end nobody knows and evidently nobody cares. And it is not only the very rich who are gambling. Profiteering in Europe was widespread and comparative and where a few hundreds used to spend evenings at chemin de fer, roulette and baccarat there are now thousands and the tables are not numerous enough to enable crowds to get near them. If one wants a seat at the Ostend Casino just now it is advisable to be there when play begins at 10 o'clock in the morning and in the crush to get money on the beard other people's toes are of least possible consideration.

There never was, too, such a display of jewels. Profiteers have had at least some sense remaining and have turned part of their fortunes into that form of easily realisable estate. Wearing diamonds with bathing dresses is being solemnly discussed, for the parade of wealth scarcely stops at the edge of the sea. Only a two hours' automobile run distant are Dixmude and Ypres and the beginning of the great terror-stricken area of devastated Belgium and France where with infinite patience and stout-heartedness peasants are reaping crops from among shell holes and building hutments to take the place of their ruined homes. To these historic towns and to take a look at the Vindictive and the battleground of famous raid on Zeebrugge mole the profiteers go betwen evenings in the Casino.

In Ostend itself they are being—and that is some comfort—fleeced by the townspeople, for this, which used to be one of the cheapest as well as the gayest seaside resorts in Europe, now rivals all others in dearness. At the hotel at which I am stopping the charges in 1914 were 15 francs a day. Now they are 100. Madame apologised for that and on remonstrance quartered the bill with the explanation that to old customers prices were made considerate, but that only a very few old customers come back. All who are here just now are new and to them the prices do not matter.

Also we were friends because during a night and day in September six years ago we labored to hide what of value the hotel contained. When everything was stored in the cellar a porter, one of the few remaining waiters and myself built a wall from floor to roof, shutting the valuables off from view.

But the Germans found out the hiding place. They had architects' plans of the building and discovered that the cellar ought to measure 24 feet across and that it measured only 20. So they pulled down our wall and emptied not only the store but the whole hotel of everything it contained.

Now madame makes those who grew rich in the war pay, and who can blame her? She and all others who here cater for the seaside holiday makers argue: "If we don't get their money the Casino will." And also "Every one is a long time making the Germans pay, so some one else must."

Skulls Dug Up

Elbow, Minn., Aug. 28.—Thirteen skulls, believed to be of Indian origin, were unearthed recently on the farm of Lars Pjelle near Barret, seven miles from here. Pjelle discovered the skulls when he pulled up the stump of a huge oak tree, believed to be more than 100 years old. One skull had an arrow head embedded in it and others bore indications of having been scalped.

"Old timers" here expressed the belief that the victims had been killed in Indian warfare years ago.
